

A New Concept in Dental Care

By Bill Wolfe, DDS, NMD

Dental disease is the most prevalent of all diseases. The United States Public Health Service reports that 98% of all Americans have some form of dental disease, most of which can virtually be eliminated by consumers taking responsibility for their preventive care. In addition: 18% of all Americans have such poor oral health that they can't chew properly. Every year in the U.S. there are 60 million extractions, 9 million root canals, over 200 million fillings placed, and nearly 1/8 of all Americans have no teeth at all!

The oral cavity is, by bacteria count, the dirtiest part of the body. The major organ acupuncture meridians flow through the region of the oral cavity, and the teeth can affect these major organs at a distance through their influence on these associated meridian/energy pathways. In addition, recent research demonstrates how gum disease can contribute to heart attacks, strokes, diabetes, premature births, pneumonia, etc.

These statistics clearly underscore the enormously important role which good dental care plays in the health of our entire population.

Good Energy Technology is a proprietary process of frequency infusion, whereby health-promoting frequencies are infused into products, enhancing the performance of that product. Such bio-energetic products focus on stimulating the body's energy field, encouraging health, rather than suppressing physical symptoms.

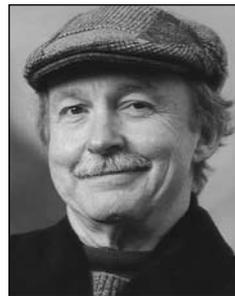

Good Energy Toothpaste is based on an Aloe Vera formula, which was developed through a research grant at Baylor College of Dentistry. There is no fluoride, sugar, nor any sodium lauryl sulfate in this pH balanced product. In addition, enzymes are incorporated to metabolize loose food debris and to help fight dental plaque, the primary cause of dental disease.

To understand why fluoride is not included in this formulation, do this. If you have a toothpaste at home, which has fluoride in it, look on the backside label, and notice that the label states something like this: NOT FOR USE BY CHILDREN UNDER THE AGE OF 6 YEARS OLD. IF SWALLOWED, REPORT TO A POISON CONTROL CENTER.

Enhanced with Good Energy Technology, Good Energy Toothpaste is an energetic modulator for the oral acupuncture meridians, desensitizing and promoting the health of the gums and teeth.

Bill Wolfe, D.D.S., N.M.D. Dr. Wolfe graduated from the University of Texas at Austin in 1968 and received his dental degree from Baylor College of Dentistry in 1972. He practices in Santa Fe, New Mexico, focusing on "Biological Dentistry", which includes the principles of electroacupuncture, kinesiology and homeopathy.
